Twenty Bermuda Regiment volunteers have joined the Bermuda Fire Service (BFS) and other agencies in battling the Pembroke Dump Fire. From Friday evening (02 March 07), two teams of 10 personnel have been working 12-hour shifts in an effort to contain the fire.

Major Stephen Caton, Public Relations Officer said the troops had answered the call quickly on Friday afternoon fulfilling the Fire Services' request for twenty soldiers.

Major Caton said: "Soldiers have spent the weekend working side-by-side BFS personnel, Works and Engineering equipment operators and other staff. The Regiment is also providing meal delivery to the multi-service team and has made available vehicles and mechanical support.
